

enforce the restriction under severe penalties, we would leave them free as to the disposal of their time.

We think that when the banks are paying specie, and demand upon them, they should pay specie, and not use of the currency. We think that when the banks are paying specie, and demand upon them, they should pay specie, and not use of the currency. We think that when the banks are paying specie, and demand upon them, they should pay specie, and not use of the currency.

The Government has been extremely urged against the circulation of small notes, in the large portion of them is always made of paper, and is not of the same quality as the gold and silver coins, and is not of the same quality as the gold and silver coins, and is not of the same quality as the gold and silver coins.

We are an exceedingly unopposed to any irredeemable paper currency, and we are not averse to a suspension of specie payments in common with those of other States, by a forced and sustained suspension of specie payments, which we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do.

And should that be commonly denominated the Sub-Treasury System, recommended by the President, be adopted, although it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie.

You will shortly, it is presumed, have statements of the condition of our Banks before you, and should there be any doubt that they are preparing for a return to specie payments as soon as possible, consistent with the interests of the community, we hope you will institute a rigid scrutiny into their concerns and operations, and that further leniency or forbearance will not be extended to any which may be found not to deserve it.

After the foregoing was prepared, we received the communications and statements herewith transmitted, marked A, B, C, D, E, and F, which we are gratified to find, confirms the favorable views which we have expressed of the condition of the banks in this State, and the grounds upon which they have been conducted.

wisdom that designed or sanctioned them, and inexhaustible fruitful source of revenue and wealth to the State. This subject cannot be too often or too earnestly pressed upon the attention of the Legislature. We must look to the future, and not to the present, and we must look to the future, and not to the present, and we must look to the future, and not to the present.

In our last annual communications, we stated that we had recently appointed Commissioners to negotiate the loan of eight millions of dollars, authorized by the act of the extra session of May, 1836. The act of the Legislature, passed at that time, was not only a wise and judicious measure, but it was also a wise and judicious measure, and it was also a wise and judicious measure.

The failure of the Commissioners to obtain, at this time, the eight million loan from Europe, has, by no means, lessened our confidence in the completion of the great works for which it was intended. The act of the Legislature, passed at that time, was not only a wise and judicious measure, but it was also a wise and judicious measure, and it was also a wise and judicious measure.

We are an exceedingly unopposed to any irredeemable paper currency, and we are not averse to a suspension of specie payments in common with those of other States, by a forced and sustained suspension of specie payments, which we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do.

And should that be commonly denominated the Sub-Treasury System, recommended by the President, be adopted, although it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie.

You will shortly, it is presumed, have statements of the condition of our Banks before you, and should there be any doubt that they are preparing for a return to specie payments as soon as possible, consistent with the interests of the community, we hope you will institute a rigid scrutiny into their concerns and operations, and that further leniency or forbearance will not be extended to any which may be found not to deserve it.

The design, made evident by the legislation of the last year, was to afford the powerful and efficient aid of the State to the accomplishment of certain works of internal improvement, in which she had a vital interest, while, at the same time, the means of doing so were as applicable and judicious as possible, and the means of doing so were as applicable and judicious as possible, and the means of doing so were as applicable and judicious as possible.

In our last annual communications, we stated that we had recently appointed Commissioners to negotiate the loan of eight millions of dollars, authorized by the act of the extra session of May, 1836. The act of the Legislature, passed at that time, was not only a wise and judicious measure, but it was also a wise and judicious measure, and it was also a wise and judicious measure.

We are an exceedingly unopposed to any irredeemable paper currency, and we are not averse to a suspension of specie payments in common with those of other States, by a forced and sustained suspension of specie payments, which we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do.

And should that be commonly denominated the Sub-Treasury System, recommended by the President, be adopted, although it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie.

You will shortly, it is presumed, have statements of the condition of our Banks before you, and should there be any doubt that they are preparing for a return to specie payments as soon as possible, consistent with the interests of the community, we hope you will institute a rigid scrutiny into their concerns and operations, and that further leniency or forbearance will not be extended to any which may be found not to deserve it.

may triumph over ignorance, but will always meet the rebuke and defeat of an enlightened community. It is the profound remark of a wise philosopher who asserted "knowledge to be power," and its power is never more manifest or more applicable than in the case of the State, and its power is never more manifest or more applicable than in the case of the State.

In our last annual communications, we stated that we had recently appointed Commissioners to negotiate the loan of eight millions of dollars, authorized by the act of the extra session of May, 1836. The act of the Legislature, passed at that time, was not only a wise and judicious measure, but it was also a wise and judicious measure, and it was also a wise and judicious measure.

We are an exceedingly unopposed to any irredeemable paper currency, and we are not averse to a suspension of specie payments in common with those of other States, by a forced and sustained suspension of specie payments, which we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do.

And should that be commonly denominated the Sub-Treasury System, recommended by the President, be adopted, although it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie.

You will shortly, it is presumed, have statements of the condition of our Banks before you, and should there be any doubt that they are preparing for a return to specie payments as soon as possible, consistent with the interests of the community, we hope you will institute a rigid scrutiny into their concerns and operations, and that further leniency or forbearance will not be extended to any which may be found not to deserve it.

We herewith present the annual report of the Board of Managers appointed under the act of December session, 1831, chapter 281, entitled "An act relating to the People of Color of this State," and it gives us pleasure to call the attention of the Legislature to the diligence and success of the efforts of those gentlemen, and the success of the efforts of those gentlemen, and the success of the efforts of those gentlemen.

In our last annual communications, we stated that we had recently appointed Commissioners to negotiate the loan of eight millions of dollars, authorized by the act of the extra session of May, 1836. The act of the Legislature, passed at that time, was not only a wise and judicious measure, but it was also a wise and judicious measure, and it was also a wise and judicious measure.

We are an exceedingly unopposed to any irredeemable paper currency, and we are not averse to a suspension of specie payments in common with those of other States, by a forced and sustained suspension of specie payments, which we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do, and we do not think it prudent to do.

And should that be commonly denominated the Sub-Treasury System, recommended by the President, be adopted, although it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie, and we think that it would prevent the return of the currency to specie.

You will shortly, it is presumed, have statements of the condition of our Banks before you, and should there be any doubt that they are preparing for a return to specie payments as soon as possible, consistent with the interests of the community, we hope you will institute a rigid scrutiny into their concerns and operations, and that further leniency or forbearance will not be extended to any which may be found not to deserve it.

From Washington.

THE ABOLITION WAR RESUMED.
(Correspondence of the Baltimore Republic.)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29, 1837.

The States were called today for petitions, and Mr. John Quincy Adams, who had put on his high level boots, made up his mind to have one of his last trumps. He said that he had in his possession a large number of anti-slavery petitions, and as he had already expressed an opinion, that the resolution adopted by the House the other day, suppressing the right of petition on the subject of slavery, was a violation of the constitution and an outrage on the freedom of speech, he would insist on the reference of all petitions of the kind to appropriate Committees, but he would not insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions, and he would not insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions.

Mr. Adams said that he would not insist on the reference of all petitions of the kind to appropriate Committees, but he would insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions, and he would not insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions.

It is evident to all, that the abolitionists in the Senate and in the House of Representatives, are determined to drive their opponents to the brink of a precipice, and they are determined to drive their opponents to the brink of a precipice, and they are determined to drive their opponents to the brink of a precipice.

Mr. Adams said that he would not insist on the reference of all petitions of the kind to appropriate Committees, but he would insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions, and he would not insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions.

Mr. Adams said that he would not insist on the reference of all petitions of the kind to appropriate Committees, but he would insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions, and he would not insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions.

Mr. Adams said that he would not insist on the reference of all petitions of the kind to appropriate Committees, but he would insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions, and he would not insist on a rule that the House be kept open for the purpose of receiving petitions.

Wanted to hire,

A negro girl from right to fifteen years of age, to go into the country. One who can come well recommended, and more or less steady, a desirable situation is offered. Inquire at this office. Dec. 30.

Notice.

THE public are hereby informed, that the undersigned, John W. Adams, of the County of Baltimore, State of Maryland, has been appointed by the Court of Chancery, to receive and distribute the assets of the late John W. Adams, deceased, and to pay the same to the creditors of the said John W. Adams, deceased, and to pay the same to the creditors of the said John W. Adams, deceased.

by Dr. R. Burroughs. We are not opposed to on the most improved plans. will be useful to the Navy.
Signed JOHN A. HENRY,
S. WASHINGTON,
THOMAS WILLIAM HENRY
MAY 20 1894

